De te produceren label-galerij beslaat opnamen gemaakt door de moedermaatschappij The Gramophone Company tussen 1900 en 1914. Daarna kwamen een aantal van diezelfde opnamen ook op andere labels uit :

- 2) het goedkopere (Disque Pour) Zonophone (een sub-label van GramCo)
- 3) Victor (GramCo's zustermaatschappij in de USA)

- 4a) Polyphon (na de eerste wereldoorlog) in Duitsland
- 4b) Opera Disc (zelfde klup maar dan in de USA op de markt gebracht)
- 5) His Master's Voice (officiële reissues na de eerste wereldoorlog)
- 6) Piratenproducties, bootlegs (gemaakt zonder toestemming)

Zoals je ziet, gaat het dus om de producten van 6 maatschappijen (1, 2 en 5 zijn eigenlijk één en dezelfde maatschappij).

Zo is BOEK 2 ook ingedeeld.

Ik heb aangegeven welke formaten er waren (in blauw), maar alleen bij 1) en 2) werden die alledrie toegepast.

Ik heb dus beelden van al deze labels en vooral bij de eerste twee zijn er uitgebreide stambomen te maken van deze labels.

En alles in chronologische volgorde.

En elk label uiteraard voorzien van deskundig commentaar.

Mocht het u nog duizelen kijk dan even (maar niet te lang!) naar wat collega Friedman gebouwd heeft.

Kounadis labels → DROPBOX → Andy_Ara_Label-etc.

As for The Gramophone and Zonophone recordings, all these side numbers (catalogue numbers) form part of a much larger body of recordings: the Oriental Catalogue.

Apart from Greek, Turkish (etc.) recordings this catalogue also includes other oriental repertoire which is not relevant for this survey, such as Croatian, Roumanian, Arabian, Crim-Tartarian, Persian etc..

Gaps in the consecutive lists of side numbers in the TABLES do not indicate unknown recordings, but indicate where a block of Turkish, Greek (etc.) side numbers (catalogue numbers or face numbers) begins, where it is interrupted by one or more blocks of other recordings and where it starts again.

In a number of cases I have mentioned these other language groups to give the reader an idea of the total scope of the Oriental Catalogue and how it is built up.

Coupling numbers on Greek GRAMOPHONE record labels

All titles in (paper) the Catalogue Général de Disques Gramophone Grecs of 1913/1914, Alexandria (pre-WWI) were allocated a coupling number.

These numbers range from 01 to 0173 and 0501 to 0572.

Why these coupling numbers were split into two groups I do not know.

In my collection four Greek records with coupling numbers 039, 096, 540 and 543.

On the labels these coupling numbers are called “serial numbers”(this term was formerly reserved for matrix numbers!).

These four numbers correspond to the same numbers in the Greek catalogue of 1913/1914.

3336 ah (15-12761) 0180

3337 ah (15-12762) 0180

(Kounadis labels) DSC 4300 / DSC 4301

(b)

In my (limited) collection of photocopies of coupling cards we find the following numbers mentioned on those cards: 035, 069, 080, 0148, 0149, 0150, 0152, 0154, 0532, 0540 and 0543.

Again, these numbers match exactly the numbers in the aforesaid Greek 1913/1914 paper catalogue.

We do not have a catalogue which lists Hugh Murtagh's new Egyptian 1913/1914 Cairo/Alexandria recordings (3324-3381 ah).

But since 52 Greek ah-recordings (= 26 coupling numbers) from this 1913/1914 Cairo/Alexandria session were issued and the previous 1913/1914 catalogue had ended on coupling number 0572, it seems logical to assume that the last coupling number of those 52 new recordings that was used was 0598 (0572 + 26).

Examples of this (expanded) generation of coupling numbers on new recordings are:

Marika Papagika's "O Stratilatis" (G.C.-5-13386 (mtx. 3367-1 ah)) and "Neráida tou yalou" (G.C.-5-13387 (mtx. 3376 ah)) which have coupling number 0582. (source Aristomenis Kalyviotis → Lamia).

The following also from Kalyviotis:

G.C.-4-14688 (mtx. 3332 ah) 0575

G.C.-4-14689 (mtx. 3341 ah) 0575

18423 (mtx. 3379 ah) 0583

15-12753 (mtx. 3368 ah) 0583

All blue dog labels with legend: Concert Record "Grammophon"

Manufactured by Deutsche Grammophon Aktiengesellschaft, Berlin

After that the system of allocating this type of coupling numbers was discontinued.

This type of coupling numbers was only used during a very short period: 1913-1914.

I have two copies G.C.-18122/18123 (mtx 12579 b/12577 b).

One is from Riga (Angel label)

Coupling numbers on Greek GRAMOPHONE record labels

All titles in (paper) the Catalogue Général de Disques Gramophone Grecs of 1913/1914, Alexandria (= pre-WWI) were allocated a coupling number.

These numbers range from 01 to 0173 and 0501 to 0572.

Why these coupling numbers were split into two groups I do not know.

In my collection I have (only) four Greek records with coupling numbers on the record labels: 039, 096, 540 and 543.

On the labels these coupling numbers are called “serial numbers”(The Gramophone Company formerly used this term for matrix numbers!).

These four numbers correspond to the same numbers in the Greek catalogue of 1913/1914.

I do not know if any of these numbers show up on actual record labels...

Coupling numbers on Turkish ZONOPHONE record labels

(1) Record copy *ZONOPHONE X-102653 (1392 r) and *X-102658 (1409 r) (red/white stripes) has (identical, of course) coupling number “1” at 8 o’clock. This number “1” corresponds to the number of that same record on page 2 of an (undated) Zonophone catalogue (containing # 1-322).

I do not know when the use of these coupling numbers was stopped.

(2) In my collection blue-label Turkish ZONOPHONE X-102768 / X-109267 (1765 r / 1776 r) has coupling number “243”.

(corresponds to the number of that same record on page 40 of an (undated) Zonophone catalogue (containing # 1-322).

(3) X-102771 (in my collection = 1768 r) has “246”, but the flipside X-102197 (439 r) has no coupling number. It is coupled with a recording which did not have a coupling number (apparently).

The regular coupling is X-102771 with X-102723 (corresponds to number “246” on page 40 of Zonophone Turkish catalogue p. 40).

Later red/white Zonophones do not have coupling numbers. At some point the Zonophone label was cancelled/stopped altogether: the last Zonophones to be issued were the 1911 Drama/Salonica ak (Dillnutt) recordings (late Aug-early Sep 1911).

This catalogue does not mention the name Zonophone, but has the round logo (surrounded by flags) and at the top of the front page an Ottoman text which is also on the red/white striped labels (Nicolo imdat 7).

The introduction of allocating coupling numbers (referring to similar numbers in an actual paper catalogue) must have started when the new red/white striped Zonophone label was introduced (when? May/June 1910, see coupling cards).

The term/name “DISQUE POUR ZONOPHONE” was dropped (from both record and catalogues) and only a white round logo with “Gramophone Company” in golden arabic characters (calligraphy) remained (flanked by two smaller round logos with two Turkish flags).

This logo was already on earlier (black label) Zonophones as a kind of white stamp. (for diagonally red/white striped labels see my Favorite article page 180. Imitation of Favorite’s striped label? Or the other way round? Corona Record also.)

Only the catalogue numbers on the records point to their being Zonophone records. Afterwards a separate (cheap) sub-label was abolished altogether. Vogel complains (when?) that the old Zonophone catalogue recorded between 1905 and late 1907) is out of date and does not sell any more.

These old recordings were first issued as Zonophone records and cover the following years:

- 1905 Constantinople (Max Hampe)
- 1906 Constantinople (Max Hampe)
- 1907 Constantinople (Charles Scheuplein)
- 1907 Athens (Fred Gaisberg)

Vogel proposes label change for old Zonophones and new coupling (letters 7/8/1909, 20/9/1909, 17/11/1909).

Greek Zonophone records with (olive) green label came out in 1909. They were advertised in the ΓΕΝΙΚΟΣ ΚΑΤΑΛΟΓΟΣ ΤΩΝ ΕΛΛΗΝΙΚΩΝ ΔΙΣΚΩΝ ΖΩΝΟΦΩΝ (Με Δύο Όψεις) Νοέμβριος 1909 (Alexandria, Egypt). On the back of the catalogue is the wheel with the cross with "ZONOPHONE" horizontally and vertically.
(for examples see not yet digitized slides)

There also exists a ΓΕΝΙΚΟΣ ΚΑΤΑΛΟΓΟΣ ΤΩΝ ΕΛΛΗΝΙΚΩΝ ΔΙΣΚΩΝ ΖΩΝΟΦΩΝ (Με Δύο Όψεις) Νοέμβριος 1908 (Alexandria, Egypt). I have no idea if that contains records with this new label (it has only the dog trade mark on the back).

Coupling numbers on Turkish ZONOPHONE record labels

(1)
Record copy *ZONOPHONE X-102653 (1392 r) and *X-102658 (1409 r) (red/white stripes) has (identical, of course) coupling number "1" at 8 o'clock. This number "1" corresponds to the number of that same record on page 2 of an (undated) Zonophone catalogue (containing # 1-322).
I do not know when the use of these coupling numbers was begun and/or stopped.

In my collection blue-label Turkish ZONOPHONE X-102768 / X-109267 (1765 r / 1776 r) has coupling number "243".

(corresponds to the number of that same record on page 40 of an (undated) Zonophone catalogue (containing # 1-322).

(3)

X-102771 (in my collection = 1768 r) has “246”, but the flipside X-102197 (439 r) has no coupling number. It is coupled with a recording which did not have a coupling number (apparently).

The regular coupling is X-102771 with X-102723 (corresponds to number “246” on page 40 of Zonophone Turkish catalogue p. 40).

(4)

Zono 10671 u has coupling number (241). No number on flipside (labels Kounadhis)

(5)

10536 u (X-2-102248) labels Kounadhis has (421)

(6)

3336 ah (15-12761) 0180

3337 ah (15-12762) 0180

(Kounadis labels) DSC 4300 / DSC 4301

Later red/white Zonophones do not have coupling numbers. At some point the Zonophone label was cancelled/stopped altogether: the last Zonophones were the 1911 Drama/Salonica ak (Dillnutt) recordings (late Aug-early Sep 1911).

This catalogue does not mention the name Zonophone, but has the round logo (surrounded by flags) and at the top of the front page an Ottoman text which is also on the red/white striped labels (Nicolo imdat 7).

The introduction of allocating coupling numbers (referring to similar numbers in an actual paper catalogue) must have started when the new red/white striped Zonophone label was introduced (when? May/June 1910, see coupling cards).

The term/name “DISQUE POUR ZONOPHONE” was dropped (from both record and catalogues) and only a white round logo with “Gramophone Company” in golden arabic characters (calligraphy) remained (flanked by two smaller round logos with two Turkish flags).

This logo was already on earlier (black label) Zonophones as a kind of white stamp. (for diagonally red/white striped labels see my Favorite article page 180.

Imitation of Favorite's striped label? Or the other way round? Corona Record also.)

Only the catalogue numbers on the records point to their being Zonophone records. Afterwards a separate (cheap) sub-label was abolished altogether. Vogel complains (when?) that the old Zonophone catalogue recorded between 1905 and late 1907) is out of date and does not sell any more.

These old recordings were first issued as Zonophone records and cover the following years:

Constantinople 1905

(500-525 q / 254-495 r / 111-145 s) (Max Hampe)

Constantinople 1906

(1379-1704 r / 1750-1779 r) (Max Hampe)

(1750 r should have been 1705 r, I guess)

Constantinople 1907

(10506-10766 u) (Charles Scheuplein)

Athens 1907

(10690-10769 b) (Fred Gaisberg)

Vogel proposes label change for old Zonophones and new coupling (letters 7/8/1909, 20/9/1909, 17/11/1909).

The following ZONOPHONE catalogue numbers have no « X » as prefix, since they are all 7-inch/17,5cm. X-prefixed catalogue numbers are 10-inch/25cm.

JEWISH

Record copy *X-102653 (1392 r) and *X-102658 (1409 r) (red/white stripes) has (identical, of course) coupling numbers "1" at 8 o'clock.

This numbers "1" corresponds to the same record in an (undated) Zonophone catalogue (containing # 1-322).

This catalogue does not refer to the name Zonophone, but has the round logo (surrounded by flags) and at the top of the front page an Ottoman text which is also on the red/white striped labels (Nicolo imdat 7).

The introduction of allocating coupling numbers (referring to an actual paper catalogue) must have started when the new red/white striped Zonophone label was introduced (when? May/June 1910, see coupling cards).

The name "DISQUE POUR ZONOPHONE" was dropped and only a white round logo with "Gramophone Company" in golden arabic characters (calligraphy) remained (flanked by two smaller logos with two Turkish flags).

© Hugo Strötbaum

ZONOPHONE

This logo was already on earlier Zonophones as a kind of white stamp

See letter of 2 Jan 1908 about [illegal] copy records (Fassett (GramCo) to Sigmund Weinberg (Constantinople))

Out of X-103078 – 103085 only two recordings surfaced:

X-103079 (in catalogue, p.) and X-103081 (slide).

As we do not have all catalogues we do not know if these ever circulated or not.

The matrix numbers have been deleted with the comment "These Serial Nos should not be crossed through"

Do 7-inch record copies have the prefix "X" or not?

(In the Turkish catalogue they have the prefix "X")

X-102060 – X-102095

Crossed out (p. 13 of my prints):

What is meant by “serial numbers” ?

Normally The Gramophone Company used the term “serial number” for a “matrix number”.

For the other 6 TCB recordings see: X-107253, X-109289, X-109290, X-109292, X-109293 and X-109294

VICTOR

* = copy in HUST collection

Basically, Victor side numbers (catalogue numbers) are coupling numbers or combination numbers.

A coupling number is an identical number that is allocated to both sides of a record.

Such a coupling number was turned into sidenumber (catalogue number) by adding a capital "A" or a capital "B".

A side number serves to identify one specific side of a record, never both sides and can be found on the label and in the empty/dead wax.

POLYPHON RECORD & OPERA DISC

No catalogue of these oriental releases has turned up yet, so this survey is far from complete.

The only known Opera Disc catalogue covers only classical repertoire and does not list oriental records.

However, an Opera Disc catalogue of foreign records did exist, but has not surfaced yet.

DGAG was only allowed the Dog-label in Germany

Rectangular white sticker with text: Diese Platte ist nur für den Gebrauch in Deutschland bestimmt. Allowing Turkish and Greek records being pressed in Germany is asking for trouble. Even a child can understand that this will lead to all kinds of underhand/illegal trade with the countries with Turkish and Greek people.

10-inch POLYPHON RECORD & OPERA DISC COMPANY

During World War I DGAG (Deutsche Grammophon Aktiengesellschaft) was considered enemy property and subsequently nationalized by the German authorities.

After the war around 1920 the DGAG decided to make new pressings on the green Polyphon label from the classical and oriental matrices which were still stored at the Hanover factory. Until now we do not know exactly how many Oriental records were pressed.

But the recordings listed in the table below may give us a clue.

The lowest (known to me) coupling number is 13330 and the highest (known to me) coupling number is 13863.

Both these numbers are rather arbitrary, as these numbers were taken from existing copies, found so far. In other words, it is not known what the lowest and highest number really was.

If we take these numbers as the starting point and the end of one complete uninterrupted/consecutive series of issued Polyphon/Opera Disc record copies, we arrive at an estimated total of over 500 records. That would mean a total of over a thousand recordings, assuming titles were not issued more than once in this series (i. e. no duplicates). As far as I know, the size of these records was invariably 10-inch/25cm.

Two unusual records are found with typical Polyphon/Opera Disc coupling numbers (or order numbers):

13708 (1865y / 1866y)

On the (writing angel) label it says CONCERT RECORD "GRAMOPHONE"

13712 (1861y / 1862y)

On the (writing angel) label it says CONCERT RECORD "GRAMMOPHON"

(Images from DISCOGS)

The numbers 13708 and 13712 fit exactly into the (foreign/ethnic) Polyphon/Opera Disc series.

I date the to 1921 or possibly 1920 (or earlier), when it had not yet been decided what the official Opera Disc label was going to be.

But apparently the coupling numbers (order numbers) had already been worked out!

M. KINNEAR (ARSC article) confirms 24 April 1917 as the date on which Polyphon-Musikwerke A.G. of Leipzig acquired Deutsche Grammophon A.G. It later became Polyphon-Werke. Second. Polyphon-Werke acquired the Musica G.D. trade mark and registered it on 28 January 1921 so it cannot have used by Polyphon before that date.

Max Hesslein visited Germany in:

Aug-Sep 1920

March 1921

June (- Sep?) 1921

Sep 1921 (same trip)

There also was a 30cm Opera Disc series which seems to have contained only Arabic repertoire: 60019 – 60065 (lowest and highest known coupling number).

All sofar traced copies are Opera Disc records.

A catalogue would give us a more exact insight in how many records were issued, but so far no (German) Polyphon record catalogue listing these oriental records or even all foreign (i.e. ethnic) records has surfaced, nor any other form of company paperwork which no doubt existed at the time.

An Opera Disc Company foreign catalogue listing foreign/ethnic (including oriental) repertoire is known to have existed, in view of the text "Opera Disc Records are made in all foreign languages. Ask for our foreign catalogue" (on page 32 of the Catalogue of Opera Disc Records 1922 (Opera Disc Distributing Company Incorporated, 25 West 18th Street, New York).

So far this foreign catalogue has not surfaced.

RECORD PIRACY The Attempts of the Sound Recording Industry to Protect Itself against Unauthorized Copying, 1890-1978 by Raymond R.. Wile

At the end of the First World War the disruptions caused by that conflict were to create a new problem. Prior to the outbreak of war, the Victor Talking Machine Company and the Gramophone Company had matrix exchange agreements with each other, and a German sister company (Deutsche Grammophon) providing pressing facilities for the Gramophone Co. During the war Deutsche Grammophon was seized as alien property by the German government and sold to Polyphon of Leipzig, and by 1918 it was a separate operating entity. In a desperate attempt to obtain needed foreign exchange, Polyphon issued a long list of records derived from Victor matrices, as well as Gramophone Company productions to which Victor held American rights. The pressings were quite good and were sold in the United States on a much lower price scale than the regular Victor pressings. Victor brought suit against the American distributor, the Max Hesslein Opera Disc Company, and a decision was rendered in favor of Victor in 1923.

ENDNOTE 44 In this case the classic elements were present for a common law case of unfair competition: 1. Plaintiff and defendant must have been engaged in competition with each other; 2. Defendant must have appropriated a business asset that complainant had acquired by the investment of skill, money, time, and effort; and 3. Defendant must have fraudulently "passed off" or "palmed off" the appropriated asset as the plaintiff's, thereby confusing the public as to the source of the goods.

ENDNOTE 45 Even so, many Gramophone Company recordings for which Victor did not exercise its American publication rights were issued before the practice was halted, thus giving modern record collectors an opportunity to acquire recordings that might otherwise be much rarer.* *An example is Caruso's 1903 Milan recording of "Mi par d 'udir ancora" (Bizet: Les P@cheurs de perles), issued on Opera Disc 76062, which was assigned a Victor number but apparently never issued on that label the label area. However, the Germans reworked the "foreign" stampers with the addition of an outer raised ring and run-out spiral, so the pressings bear no physical resemblance to their Victor counterparts. The earliest version of the label (pictured on the left at the beginning of the article), in gold on purple, dark brown, or black, was simply pasted over the original German labels. Once the supply of surplus pressings was exhausted, Polyphon made new pressings bearing multicolored labels, with their lyre-playing nude rendered in a flat, fleshlike tone. The often-heard statement that Opera Discs were sold very cheaply is not true; their catalogs cite exactly the same list prices as those on the corresponding Victor releases. The first Opera Discs were ready for market by the spring of 1921. Hesslein filed a trademark application on the Musica brand, with seated lyre-playing nude, on June 21, 1921, claiming use of the trademark on records beginning March 25 of that year. Opera Disc sales seem to have been lackluster, although pressing quality was good, prices competitive, and the artist roster first-rate. As a result, many Opera Disc issues are far rarer than the corresponding original issues. Some remarkable rarities were also reissued, including several of Caruso's 1903 G&T sides.

ENDNOTES 44 & 45 cannot be copied from original article

12-inch OPERA DISC

Apart from the 10-inch/25cm records the Opera Disc Company also issued 12-inch/30cm recordings. As far as known these were all Arabian recordings made in Egypt.

The explanation is that between 1900 and 1914 relatively few 30cm Turkish and Greek recordings were made. 31 Recordings in 1904 and 35 recordings in 1905 in Constantinople. (also London 1909: 3099 f by Alexander Sterio).

Whereas 30cm size recordings were quite common in the Arabian catalogue, due to the fact that many Arabian titles often took up four sides (Part 1, 2, 3 and 4).

Lowest known coupling number: 60019

Highest known coupling number: 60065

Lowest coupling number probably: 60000 or 60001

Estimated total of 65 records = 130 recordings.

The original catalogue numbers can be found in the first BOOK via the matrix numbers

Many thanks to Maria Kapkidi and John Milmo for valuable assistance.

Arabic 78 RPM Records Collection: A Newly-Catalogued Treasure

SEPTEMBER 5, 2017 / LOEBMUSIC / 1 COMMENT

On the shelves of Loeb Music Library lie treasures. The 78rpm Arabic records collection is only one of many. The collection contains over 600 records belonging to the Nahḍah era (Arab renaissance) of the early twentieth century. The recordings represent voices and instruments that shaped the music scene and aesthetic taste during the period between 1910 and 1950. The collection joins another of newer Arabic LP records.

The discs feature recordings of famous performers and composers who are recognized for their distinguished contribution to Arabic music, such as vocalist Yūsuf Al-Manyalāwī (1847-1911), Sayyid Al-Ṣaftī (1875-1939) who was nicknamed the master of dawr (a form of Arabic music), Umm Kulthūm (1904-1975), and Faraj Allah Baydā, who established Baidaphon records company, the first of its kind in the Arab world in early twentieth century. It also features shadowed and forgotten voices such as Aḥmad afandī Al-Mīr, Na'im Sam'ān, and many others. That era also marks the first recordings of women vocalists such as Munīrah Al-Mahdiyyah (1884-1965), 'Aliyā Al-Atrash, and Laure Daccāsh.

Jaddidī yā nafs ḥaḏak. I-II Gaddidi ya nafs al-Marḥūm al-Shaykh Yūsuf al-Manyalāwī (CRG 60061), AWM 78-60

One of the most important names of that period was the violinist Sāmī Al-Shawwā who introduced the violin to the traditional Arabic music ensemble (takht). Al-Shawwā performed with Yūsuf Al-Manyalāwī and Abd Al-Ḥay Hilmī whose voices were preserved on Gramophone Monarch Records and famous Baidaphon records.

Bashraf al-bīṭar 'alā takht Na'im Karakand (Columbia E2950), HOLLS # 015109310

Taqsīm rasd ('ūd) ; Taqsīm Bayātī ('ūd) / Dāwūd afandī Ḥusnī (CRG 3033), HOLLIS # 015109435

Sūrat Yūsuf (qur'ān) / Al-sit Waddādh al-Miṭlāwī (Victor 73429-A), HOLLIS # 015110434

Arab record companies, such as Baidaphon and Cairophon, are only a few among many other American (Columbia, Victor), European (Odeon, Orfeon), and Arab-American companies (Al-Chark, Alamphon) that recorded and released these notable Arab voices. Songs and performers from Egypt, Syria, Lebanon, Palestine, Iraq and Al-Maghrib exhibit the rich tradition of Arabic musical forms, namely the art of al-mawwāl (vocal improvisation), qaṣīdah (sung poems), muwashshah (Andalusian sung poetry), taqtūqah (pop songs) and taqsīm (instrumental improvisation). Religious chants are also an important piece of the Arabic musical tradition. The collection includes Qur'anic recitation of Al-shaykh Tāhā Al-Fashnī and a rare record of a woman reciter Wadūdah Al-Miṭlāwī alongside Christian hymns of Father Gignis 'Azīz Al-Jizzīnī.

Many items in the collections are rare and show distinctive inscription and information. What stood out the most was the first recording of plays' songs in urban Cairo especially those performed by Salāmah Hijāzī \(1852 – 1919\). As soon as cinema was introduced to Egypt, recordings of the films' songs were also released.

Anā mush ḥilwah by Nūr Al-Hudá (1924-1988) from the film Magd wa-dumū, 1946 (Arabphon 503A), HOLLIS # 015109446

Acquired over a period of ten years, the Arabic 78 Collection joins the increasing yet still limited interest in the preservation of early Arabic music recorded heritage. Individual donations to the collection include the notable personal collection of Boston-based expressionist visual artist Kahlil George Gibran (1922-2008).

The Archive of World Music is a special collection within the Loeb Music Library. Many of its rare and fragile recordings (other than commercial CDs, VHS tapes, and DVDs) must be reformatted for research use. Requests for in-library listening copies of recordings may be made at any time, but require one week to prepare. To make best use of your time at the Archive, please contact Peter Laurence, Curatorial Assistant in the Archive of World Music, in advance.

HIS MASTER'S VOICE (HMV) :

Greek 01-0173 / 0501-0572 SERIES

Greek AO SERIES

Turkish AX-SERIES

Initially catalogues (in the Ottoman Empire) always were a mixed affair: they were reserved for Turks, Greeks, Jews etc. Later exclusive catalogues were issued for the various target groups (languages):

exclusively Greek catalogues were also issued:

1908 (Nov) - Zono

1909 (Nov) - Zono

1911 (July) - GramCo

1913/1914 - GramCo

All printed in Alexandria (the head of the subbranch).

Apparently the need to cater for specific language groups was felt

The His Master's Voice (dog) label for Greek records was probably introduced prior to the Greek AO series, in 1913.

I have records Concert Record "Gramophone" with (1) WRITING ANGEL red or (2) DOG blue (Manufactured by Deutsche Grammophon-Aktiengesellschaft, Berlin).

Catalogue number twice on the label: askance/diagonal, both between 7 & 8 o'clock and between 4 & 5 o'clock.

The blue 1914 Alexandria labels have same design, plus a coupling number in the 8 o'clock position.

Riga pressing identical design.

When were these records pressed?

These records were given coupling numbers running from 01 to 0173 and from 0501 to 0572.

According to the 1913/1914 catalogue they had grenat (dog? angel?) labels.

This type of coupling numbers is also found on coupling cards.

But were these grenat label copies ever issued?

The AO/AP series (25cm/10-inch and exclusively Greek) was created after World War I, in 1922, as is borne out by the first post-WWI Greek catalogue (Catalogue de la Première Série des disques Gramophone Grecs. Enregistrement & Copyright 1922: the first Greek catalogue to contain the new AO/AP coupling numbers.

The AX-series (25cm/10-inch) was created ca. 1927 and shared by Iraqis, Persians and Turks. Many years had elapsed since a recording engineer had been sent to Greece.

The unstable political situation in the region (war between Turkey and Greece 1920-1922) and the subsequent new geo-political developments must have been at the heart of this split-up.

It seems likely that the system of coupling numbers for Turkish and Greek – devised just prior to WWI (see Alexandria catalogue 1913/1914) when Hanover was still “in British hands”, was abandoned/cancelled after the First World War and the subsequent war with Greece - caused GramCo to change this.

It looks as if the first system of coupling numbers (an English-German cooperation, when Hanover was still run by the English) had to be adapted to the new political situation: the GramCo - DGAG split-up during WW1 and the subsequent Greco-Turkish war. Suddenly the geo-political situation had changed. When the second system (a purely English affair Greece-centered (Athens-orientated) AO-series) was introduced the Ottoman Empire had been reduced to a much smaller Turkish state). The Treatises of Sèvres (1920) and Lausanne (1923) had completely overturned/reshuffled the

What used to be the common factor (shared by Turks, Greeks etc. alike, multi-ethnic musical melting-pot centered around Constantinople) had become two different countries, each with a separate (nationalistic) musical agenda. No ethnically overlapping repertoire.

And recording sessions had failed

(a) 1926 (ended in April): first recordings issued in December and others in 1927 (delay

(b) 1927 (June): 92 titles in January 1928 (delay due to special treatment of waxes)

The Greek AO-series was exclusively reserved for Greek recordings.

(AP-series for 30cm, but no 30cm early (1903-1912) recordings were issued in this series)

The AO-series started with Greek recordings made between 1922 and 1926 (AO 1-118).

Then in 1927 (see catalogue) follows a series of old recordings made between 1905 and 1912 (AO 119-127).

On Greek Coupling Cards it says: Re-coupled October 1926 or New Coupling No. allotted Oct. 1926, which clearly shows that this part of the AO-series was being prepared (and possibly even launched) in late 1926.

Then followed a large number of modern recordings (AO 128-340)

After that 7 old recordings, dating back to the period 1909-1912, were issued (AO 341, 344, 348 and 350).

One of these old recordings (AO 344) was coupled with a modern Victor recording from 1923 (New York).

Coupling numbers are presented in italics.

Greek

The survey contains not only 1900-1914 recordings, but also a number of 1922, 1926, 1927, 1927, 1928 recordings.

I left those in because it gives a good impression how the AO series was built up.

That among the 1900-1914 recordings in the AO series later recordings were also included.

The (Sahibinin Sesi) AX-series (later AX/AZ) was not exclusively Turkish. It was shared by several target groups: Iraqi, Iranians/Persians.

It started in 1925 with Iraqi (AX 1-138) and Persian (AX 139-428) recordings.

The Turkish AX series was begun in 1927, as is shown by an undated Turkish HMV catalogue with a stamp "1927".

The first catalogues of Turkish records issued in the AX series were still in both Arabic-script Turkish and unofficial latin-script (based on French pronunciation) Turkish.

The first evidence of this new series.

From AX 429 onwards a Turkish series was introduced which ran uninterruptedly to AX 458. AX 429-458 consisted solely of reissues of old acoustic pre-WWI recordings from the period 1903-1912.

Apparently the time for making new recordings in the new Turkish Republic had not arrived yet.

From AX 459 onwards the series contained new (electric!) recordings.

Flipside: Laz Havası (artist could be İbrahim Efendi, but also Mme Şamran or someone else)

Lazic Greek sides highly suspicious.

I know where they come from: a coupling card, but it has no AX code.

Besides, (Lazic) Greek in a Turkish catalogue? Unlikely, to say the least.

But (Lazic) Turkish is OK.

SIX BOOTLEG LABELS :
FABRICATION OTTOMANE
CORONA RECORD
DISQUE POUR GRAMMOPHONE
DISQUE ARTISTIQUE FRANÇAIS
ORPHEUM RECORD
ANONYMOUS LABEL (red/white striped)

This is the story of a number of record labels (“companies”), which used recordings made by the major (foreign & local) record companies to produce illegal copies (dubbings/bootlegs/pirates).

They could sell at lower prices without incurring the costs of recording of artist payments. It was all about undercutting.

When the major record companies had established a foothold in the most important cities/urban areas, they were faced not only with strong competition from their own ranks, but also with all kind of crafty/cunning entrepreneurs who wanted their share of the business.

Whether they posed a real threat to the regular trade is doubtful.

These “pirate” labels were:

- (1) CORONA - RECORD
- (2) DISQUE ODE
- (3) DISQUE POUR GRAMMOPHONE ETC. (with double "M", instead of DISQUE POUR GRAMOPHONE with one "M", as on the regular French labels of The Gramophone Company; example at the back of letter 3/11/1908)
- (4) FABRICATION OTTOMANE
- (5) NAMELESS LABEL (Cluster of musical instruments)
- (6) NAMELESS LABEL (Red/White stripes)
- (7) TURC RECORD
- (8) DISQUE ARTISTIQUE FRANÇAIS
- (9) ORPHEUM RECORD

2 undated catalogues of "KORONA" Talking Machines.

The catalogues are in Turkish (Ottoman script) and Greek

On the front cover of the Greek version of the catalogue is a drawing of a gramophone and on the wooden box of the gramophone it says "CORONA RECORD".

Thus the name "KORONA" is linked to "CORONA RECORD".

CORONA RECORD is also found on a number of labels of 25/27cm records (with red/white stripes and dark green), which contain recordings ODEON, THE GRAMOPHONE COMPANY, FAVORITE and ORFEON.

On the green version of the catalogue (otherwise identical to the red version) it says:

Katastima "KORONA AMERIKA" odos Ypsilis Pylis (=Bab'iali) Ar. 19.

Both catalogues bear oval stamps, saying: Jacques Baumgarten, Constantinople.

In an accompanying letter of 11 June 1908 from The Gramophone Company Ltd. London to the Deutsche Grammophon Aktiengesellschaft (Berlin)

Also on the front cover: CHICAGO-AMERICA U. S. A.

The letter of 4 June to which is being referred not found.

However a note reads:

Kaselowsky states Baumgarten are supplying Roumania from Constantinople Roumania/Mischonzniki (letter 17/7/1908, p. 7)

"KORONA AMERIKA" or, rather, "KORONA AMERICA" is also found on the labels of a number of records, called "DISQUE POUR GRAMMOPHONE".

On these labels is printed: Fabriqué par la Maison "Korona America".

These records are obviously pirate editions of recordings made by the major record companies of those days: ODEON and THE GRAMOPHONE COMPANY. So we have a link between "CORONA RECORD" and "DISQUES POUR GRAMMOPHONE ETC."

Then there exists a copy of a "CORONA RECORD" disc, which has a "DISQUE ODE" label on the flipside, clearly suggesting a link between "CORONA RECORD", "DISQUE POUR GRAMMOPHONE ETC." and "DISQUE ODE" ... And last but not least, there exists a record with a "DISQUE POUR GRAMMOPHONE ETC." label on one side, and a FABRICATION OTTOMANE label on the other.

Conclusion: "CORONA RECORD", "DISQUE POUR GRAMMOPHONE ETC.", "DISQUE ODE" and FABRICATION OTTOMANE seem to be all related to one another ...

In my collection is a fifth record label with a cluster of musical instruments as logo, but no label name and no information on the label about what kind of music is on the record or who the artist's) are. Printed on the label the following captions/slogans:

- DISQUES POUR MACHINES PARLANTES
(also found on "DISQUE ODE", hot-air balloon)
 - Reproduction parfaite
 - Résistance sans égal
 - Exigez la marque
- (these last 3 found on)

Were these labels used simultaneously, or can a certain chronological sequence be established?

The recordings range from ...

Not much is known about Jacques Baumgarten.

His name can be found in the "Annuaire Oriental" of 1913 and 1917.

Behind his name we find: Commissionaire, Grand Rue de Pera, 657, one of Constantinople's main shopping street ("Oxford Street").

Nowadays/the present-day İstiklâl Caddesi.

On a cemetery in Istanbul is a gravestone (see slide) with the following text:

On these labels is printed: Fabriqué par la Maison "Korona America".

These records are obviously pirate editions of recordings made by the major record companies of those days: ODEON and THE GRAMOPHONE COMPANY.

So we have a link between "CORONA RECORD" and "DISQUES POUR GRAMMOPHONE".

Then there exists a copy of a "CORONA RECORD" disc, which has a "DISQUE ODE" label on the flipside, clearly suggesting a link between "CORONA RECORD", "DISQUE POUR GRAMMOPHONE ETC." and "DISQUE ODE".....

And last but not least, there exists with a "DISQUE POUR GRAMMOPHONE ETC." label on one side, and a FABRICATION OTTOMANE label on the other.

Conclusion: "CORONA RECORD", "DISQUE POUR GRAMMOPHONE ETC.", "DISQUE ODE" and FABRICATION OTTOMANE seem to be all related to one another

Not much is known about Jacques Baumgarten.

His name can be found in the "Annuaire Oriental" of 1913 and 1917.

Behind his name we find: Commissionaire, Grand Rue de Pera, 657, one of Constantinople's main shopping streets (the Oxford Street of Constantinople). Nowadays/the present-day İstiklâl Caddesi.

On a cemetery in Istanbul I found a gravestone with the following text:

JACOB BAUMGARTEN
born 16 September 1862
died 2 November 1927

Arabic 78 RPM Records Collection: A Newly-Catalogued Treasure

SEPTEMBER 6, 2017 / LOEBMUSIC / 1 COMMENT

On the shelves of Loeb Music Library lie treasures. The 78rpm Arabic records collection is only one of many. The collection contains over 600 records belonging to the Nahdah era (Arab renaissance) of the early twentieth century. The recordings represent voices and instruments that shaped the music scene and aesthetic taste during the period between 1910 and 1950. The collection joins another of newer Arabic LP records.

The discs feature recordings of famous performers and composers who are recognized for their distinguished contribution to Arabic music, such as vocalist Yūsuf Al-Manyalāwī (1847-1911), Sayyid Al-Ṣafī (1875-1939) who was nicknamed the master of dawr (a form of Arabic music), Umm Kulthūm (1904-1975), and Faraj Allah Baydā, who established Baidaphon records company, the first of its kind in the Arab world in early twentieth century. It also features shadowed and forgotten voices such as Aḥmad afandī Al-Mīr, Na'im Sam'ān, and many others. That era also marks the first recordings of women vocalists such as Munīrah Al-Mahdiyyah (1884-1965), 'Aliyā Al-Atrash, and Laure Daccāsh.

One of the most important names of that period was the violinist Sāmī Al-Shawwā who introduced the violin to the traditional Arabic music ensemble (takht). Al-Shawwā performed with Yūsuf Al-Manyalāwī and Abd Al-Hay Hilmī whose voices were preserved on Gramophone Monarch Records and famous Baidaphon records.

Arab record companies, such as Baidaphon and Cairophon, are only a few among many other American (Columbia, Victor), European (Odeon, Orfeon), and Arab-American companies (Al-Chark, Alamphon) that recorded and released these notable Arab voices. Songs and performers from Egypt, Syria, Lebanon, Palestine, Iraq and Al-Maghrib exhibit the rich tradition of Arabic musical forms, namely the art of al-mawwāl (vocal improvisation), qaṣīdah (sung poems), muwashshah (Andalusian sung poetry), taṣṭīqah (pop songs) and taqṣīm (instrumental improvisation). Religious chants are also an important piece of the Arabic musical tradition. The collection includes Qurʿanic recitation of Al-shaykh Ṭāhā Al-Fashnī and a rare record of a woman reciter Wadūdah Al-Mīnālāwī alongside Christian hymns of Father Gīgis ʿAzīz Al-Jizzīnī.

Many items in the collections are rare and show distinctive inscription and information. What stood out the most was the first recording of plays' songs in urban Cairo especially those performed by Salāmah Hijāzī \(1852 – 1919\). As soon as cinema was introduced to Egypt, recordings of the films' songs were also released.

Anā mush ḥilwah by Nūr Al-Hudá (1924-1988) from the film Magd wa-dumūʿ, 1946 (Arabphon 503A), HOLLIS # 015109446

Acquired over a period of ten years, the Arabic 78 Collection joins the increasing yet still limited interest in the preservation of early Arabic music recorded heritage. Individual donations to the collection include the notable personal collection of Boston-based expressionist visual artist Kahlil George Gibran (1922-2008).

The Archive of World Music is a special collection within the Loeb Music Library. Many of its rare and fragile recordings (other than commercial CDs, VHS tapes, and DVDs) must be reformatted for research use. Requests for in-library listening copies of recordings may be made at any time, but require one week to prepare. To make best use of your time at the Archive, please contact Peter Laurence, Curatorial Assistant in the Archive of World Music, in advance.
